LSG is pleased to announce the launch of our new website

New York, 03rd October 2016: We are delighted to officially announce the launch of our newly designed website. Our goal is to provide our clients and prospective clients with clear and accurate product and service information via easy navigation.

The new website has a clean, uncluttered design with supportive information and links on the side of every solution and product page. We will be updating these pages and blogs on a regular basis with articles, videos and infographics.

Gary R. Markham, Chief Executive, states "Our new site represents a renewed focus for LSG on its core products and services. We've also aimed content at live trending on what our customers find of interest. We believe this fresh new look and feel of the site helps our readers identify relevancy in what they find at lsg.com."

LSG will be encouraging visitors to contact us through the website and sign up for the newsletter(s) which will have regular market updates.
